

J.C. Maxwell is a consulting company with main focus on infrastructure, energy and investment goods. We are market leader in the design of strategic investments and financial engineering.

For our office in Frankfurt we are looking for:

Trainee (m / f)

Assistance in projects in the infrastructure, energy and investment goods sector. Preparation of presentations, studies and reports, economic analysis and profitability analysis as well as research tasks. Participation in the development of financial architectures and investment projects.

What you should bring

Degree in energy economics, (business) information technology, (business) economics, mathematics or physics or similar experiences through various internships. Interest in energy and financial issues. Very good knowledge of German and English in spoken and written. Affinity for numbers and analytical reasoning. Very good user knowledge in Word, Excel and PowerPoint. Dedication, resilience, flexibility and team orientation. Excellent spoken and written in english.

Frame conditions

Time limit: six weeks to 12 months

Working time: part-time or full-time

Start: immediately

Please send your complete application documents by e-mail to contact@jcmaxwell.de